A SPA Tradition

Following tonight's curtain call, there will be a final musical number. The cast will be joined by the rest of the students in the Summer Performing Arts Company to perform "I Sing the Body Electric." This song has become a tradition in the SPA program. It is a symbolic song that is able to tie the entire program together. The song has different meanings to different students, but there is a common theme that can be found in the literal text. The students are celebrating not only the arts, but their growth in the arts yet to come. They will go on to create their own tomorrow as they continue in musical theatre over the next few years. The song also symbolizes the passing of a class. This is the last summer program in which the class of 1993 will be able to participate. This "passing of the tradition" is represented by the two soloists selected to sing. Travis Lien, a senior, will sing the first verse then turn over the spotlight to eighth-grader Mike Marcotte.

"And in time we will all be stars."

The Story

In the musical The Secret Garden, as in the classic children's book, 10-year-old Mary Lennox awakens one morning in India to discover that her parents and all of the surrounding compound of English residents have been killed by a cholera epidemic. Soon she is being swept along, without explanation, to her uncle's gloomy mansion in Yorkshire, to be raised by strangers. Her only possession is a cameo picture of her Aunt Lily, her uncle's wife.

In Yorkshire she finds her uncle so distracted and depressed by Lily's death, 10 years earlier, that he can barely remember that Mary is now living under his roof. Spoiled, unruly, and left to wander the gardens and take care of herself, Mary nonetheless befriends a servant girl, Martha, her brother Dickon, and the estate's head gardener, Ben Weatherstaff. But none of them will tell her the truth about the mysterious locked garden behind the estate, nor will any of them shed any light on Mary's persistent claim that every night she hears someone in the house crying pitiably behind some unopened door.

As Mary takes the situation into her own hands, her personality undergoes a transformation. She discovers first the long lost key to the secret garden, and then the door which leads her to her equally neglected cousin Colin, who has been bedridden since birth. With the help of Dickon, Martha and Ben, they untangle the secret of Colin's birth, his mother Lily's death, and together they nurse the long shutaway garden to full bloom once again.
