ALL SHOOK UP DIRECTOR'S NOTES

Thank you for joining us for SPA's production of All Shook Up!

Just as Disney's The Lion King is a musical inspired by Shakespeare's Hamlet, All Shook Up is a musical inspired by Shakespeare's Twelfth Night, set to the iconic music of Elvis Presley. Set in 1955, a guitar-playing, motorcycle-riding stranger named Chad arrives in a small midwestern town, disrupting the repressed residents and reigniting their passions. With ridiculous plot elements such as disguises, mistaken identities, and love triangles, the story dives into love, romance, and the power of music as characters discover new possibilities and connections.

We are incredibly proud of all the students participating in this production. Some are veteran performers or tech students, while others are making their debut; however, each of them has chosen to engage in something positive this summer. By presenting for a live audience, they have allowed themselves to be vulnerable, demonstrating remarkable courage and confidence. They are a wonderful group, and we take immense pride in each one of them and their growth.

After each performance, the student actors take a moment to remove and store their microphones before joining you in the lobby or outside (weather permitting) to express their gratitude for your attendance. Many of you may not know these students, and understandably, you might not feel it necessary to stick around and chat with them. However, if we don't have the opportunity to speak to you in person, please know we definitely notice you in the audience, and we deeply appreciate your support for this program, its students, and its staff.

Thank you so much for choosing to attend this performance. The cast, crew, and staff all appreciate you, and hope you enjoy what we've prepared for you.

Rich McFarlane, Director
